

With the popularity of Android in the market, scammers made sure that they get some out of its gained popularity as well. They have invented several security threats--from the common malware software to phishing scams and identity theft tools to try to get in and steal data from Android users. On the bright side, Android users need not worry because along with the growth of security threats are some of the most effective mobile antivirus software as well. Listed below are some of the best antivirus software for Android devices.

AVG

AVG has proven to be an effective solution for computers and has now extended its services to smartphones and tablets. One can opt to install the basic version without needing to register and paying for a fee. After the installation is finished, the software will immediately scan your device to check for any malicious codes or software. It also provides real-time safety of your device blocking malicious codes even before they can even enter.

AVG is one of the best tools to use as an antivirus. It not only provides an efficient antivirus scanner and safeguards your privacy but it also has the ability to locate your device when it has been stolen or lost. Furthermore, its scanning feature extends to text messages and websites you visit. These features are available in the enhanced and upgraded version of the AVG.

Lookout Mobile Security

More than 15 million users have Lookout mobile security on their phones and tablets. This software also provides real time safety to its users and scans all newly installed applications. Checking of the applications is carried out by this mobile antivirus solution after the initial scan post-installation.

The free "Find My Phone" service of the Lookout mobile security aids in finding a lost or stolen GPS enabled phone on a Google map. This feature enables the device even if it is on silent mode to give off a loud alarm. Users can also opt to avail of premium features such as safe browsing mode, remote locking, wiping, advanced backups and much more.

Avast Mobile Security

Avast mobile security is independent of Google Play and lends a variety of security tools including the main antivirus feature, a web shield feature used in scanning, the ability to inform users about malicious URLs, a privacy advisor feature and enhanced security options for anti-theft. It also allows users to execute tasks including clearing the history, locking their phones and activating sirens on their device through SMS.

Avast mobile security is mainly designed to scan the existing and future applications for any malware. Moreover, it also provides real-time protection of your device. This is considered as the best antivirus software for Android best on the Android antivirus test.

Comodo Mobile Security

Comodo mobile security is one of the newest antivirus software. As soon as it is installed, it automatically pays heed on updates but will always ask for confirmation of the users first. When it scans and detects some threats, it categorizes them into three: dangerous, pending and secure items. The user is give the option to schedule the scan.

Classifying only one winner among these effective antivirus software is a tedious task. All software have their own features and services to offer. But, no matter what you choose among these four, you are ensured of your privacy and security.

telefon dinleme